This document provides general information about Universiti Kuala Lumpur (UniKL), including its history and programmes. This is followed by more specific programme information.

Malaysia, truly Asia! Malaysia is home to Malay, Chinese and Indian ethnic groups, which makes the country a melting pot of beliefs, practices and festivals. The diverse culture and natural biodiversity of Malaysia makes for an interesting experience for a student from any other part of the world. Arguably, there are two things that define Malaysian culture: the food and the festivals.

Universiti Kuala Lumpur (UniKL)

Universiti Kuala Lumpur (UniKL) is a leading university in engineering technology and it is wholly owned by Majlis Amanah Rakyat (MARA). Universiti Kuala Lumpur is a unique university for several reasons, most notably UniKL campuses are located across the country, and not just in Kuala Lumpur. UniKL takes pride championing entrepreneurial HTVET through excellence in research, education, training, entrepreneurship, consultancy and community services. UniKL places strong emphasis on offering hands-on programmes, and provides the opportunity for students to learn from the experts in the respective fields.

UniKL offers a range of study options: a pre-degree programme and Foundation Studies; undergraduate degrees; postgraduate programmes of study including Masters degree and PhDs. Study opportunities are offered through 12 campuses created in collaboration with partner country which includes Malaysia-Spanish Institute (MSI), Malaysia- France Institute (MFI), and British-Malaysian Institute (BMI).

UniKL's International Profile

The University enrolls over 26,000 students including international students. UniKL has strong links with Europe and Asia through a range of international programmes and partnerships run in collaboration with partner institutions in France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Korea, Japan, Indonesia and Thailand to name a few. These include joint and articulation programmes, institutional study abroad programmes, staff and student exchange programmes and collaborative post-graduate programmes.

UniKL MICET Edutourism Program

Edutourism is based on the concept of knowledge-economy, in which “knowledge” is the key resource (Ojo & Yusofu, 2013) and it links education, tourism and economy. Institutions around the world use edutourism to make learning process more interesting (Perinotto, 2008), which in turn influences the internationalization of the institutions. UniKL MICET Edutourism program places “education first” in which students from partner university enjoy our program through excursions while exploring the unique culture and heritage of the Malaysian people, particularly those in Melaka.

Being culturally competent in today's multicultural and globalised world is an essential skill to study and work effectively with ethnically diverse friends and colleagues. UniKL MICET Edutourism program is aimed at participants with engineering background with program features such as practical sessions, industrial visit, and developing English communication skills.

Excursion Highlights

UNESCO World Heritage-listed

Melaka is a fun cultural delight with fascinating blended cultures. The city was an important trading hub for centuries, and squabbled over by the Portuguese, Dutch and British. Historic sites from all remain, and the city centre is immaculately conserved with rusty red buildings and colourful trishaws waiting to zip you around. Chinese traders moved to Melaka before the Europeans, and the Straits Chinese (Peranakan) culture is strong. Take a tour of the Baba and Nyonya Heritage Museum (an old Peranakan townhouse) to gain insights into a bygone age.

Batu Caves are guarded by a giant gold statue of Hindu deity, Lord Murugan. Advance up the 272 steps, past marauding monkeys, to the limestone caves where Hindu temples (which feature ornate murals and statues) are important religious fixtures. During the Thaipusam festival, many devotees walk in a trance-like procession from the city to the caves.

Suria KLCC is not a mere shopping mall. Located at the base of the Twin Towers, it has a concert hall (Dewan Filharmonik Petronas), an art gallery (Galeri Petronas), a science discovery centre and even a park right outside its doors to make your typical trip to the mall a more eventful one
